

Posture Pump®. The Answer to Disc Damage, Pain, Stiffness and Headache

Why Do Healthcare Professionals Prescribe Posture Pump®?

Posture Pump® decompresses and hydrates damaged discs while aligning vertebra into their natural curved shape. This is a vast improvement over common linear traction where the natural curved shape is forcefully removed! Posture Pump® carefully lifts and separates the neck and back joints in a new way that traction, hanging devices, massage units, vibrators, special pillows and regular exercise cannot.

World-renowned neurosurgeon and researcher Dr. C. Norman Shealy demonstrated in multiple MRI studies that EED® via Posture Pump® decreases disc bulges and spinal cord indentations while enhancing the lordotic curves and spinal ranges of motion. Dr. Shealy stated "Considering the cost, effectiveness and ease of therapy, Expanding Ellipsoidal Decompression (EED®) via Posture Pump® appears to be the first choice for treatment of cervicogenic pain and cervicogenic headache." Please carefully study the MRIs.

How Does Posture Pump® Work?

Expansion and contraction of three individual air cells (manually or electronically inflated) is employed with a rocking motion to create alternating hydration and milking of the discs. Longer expansion periods are employed for posture restoration.

If the spine loses its curved shape, the discs are compressed and rich lubricating fluid is unable to penetrate. This causes premature aging in the form of stiff dry joints.

Normal spinal curves allow nutrients to flow into the joints.

Loss of postural curves causes disc compression and blocks nutrient flow

Over time joints dry up and become stiff.
